ABOUT ME

Hybrid profile combining front-end development and visual direction. My career started in the audiovisual sector as a camera operator, evolving into web design and development, where I have spent over four years building responsive interfaces and digital experiences.

In recent years I have specialised in AI-driven visual content creation, applying art direction and brand consistency to both images and, more recently, AI-generated video. I bring together technical development, visual sensibility and AI tooling to craft creative digital solutions.

I am looking for an environment where creativity, technology and AI-applied visual content are at the core of the work.
